Upcoming Election for House of Representatives, 2082

⇒ Election is the backbone of the democratic system where the citizens choose their representative.

Election should be free, fair, transparent to provide the exact or good services by the representatives that made the acts, rules, regulations and make the governance system fair, transparent, accountable and run efficiently.

Upcoming Election for House of Representatives, 2082 is the election which are occur due to the 6enz revolution and the pre-time of election held. Timely, this election should held in 2084 but due to the protest, it held on 21 Masion 2082.

The whole country is divided into 165 areas for the FPTP election which is directly elected representatives. The ~~political~~ parties are involved with the different election manifesto and advertise their election manifesto to the citizens. Add: 110 for Prop. Representative Altogether 275.

The ~~Election~~ commission (part 24) should conduct, supervise, direct the election of House of Represent.

UT

-atives and prepare the electoral rolls and check the qualification of candidates.

The Major political parties are Nepali Congress, UML, Maoist & RSP. This election formed the House of Representatives and choose the PM. Constitutionally with the full powers. At the present, the Interim PM is formed that guide or direct elections.

To provide the security, Nepal Army, Police are directed to establish peace & maintain security. The election police officer are also recruit to help in the conduction of election. All Nepal citizens wants and pray to held a safe, fair election.

Q/NO.7

2.75

(a) Patient Innovation of Portugal

It is a process where the citizens of Portugal made a chain to form the new innovative ideas to cure the health problems of the people by the consulting by one to another and people share their experiences and helps to cure the health problems.

It helps to reduce the time period by consulting the member and people directly at any time with no cost. It forms the relief funds to help the patients.

It is a new innovative idea that reduces the people health problems by the consulting of people, and the ideas, experiences, pros & cons of symptoms or diseases etc.

Examples?

b) Seol 50+ policy of South Korea

It is a policy of the South Korea where the civil servants or public servants are retired at the age of 50 or the early, and the life expectancy of South Korea is high. So, the South Korean government should provide the training, technical education to the 50+ citizens and should work after the retirement.

This policy enhance the labour capital and workforce that directly helps in the economic growth and development etc.

~~Any Two Only~~

Regulatory Sandbox of Singapore

It is a innovative idea that helps the entrepreneurs to share their ideas in the governance institution and institutions provides the certain time period and the working space, where the entrepreneur execute their plans. If the plan is successful, it should be executed in all over the government.

It is like as a child play with the sand house which should disperse at certain time without losing anything.

It helps to reduces the financial burden of the entrepreneurs which are in the test case not actually in the whole governments.

Difference between coproduction and biovernance

	Co-production	Co-Governance
(i)	It is the process where the citizens involve in the government's planning, executing, implementing with the better service delivery and make the governance efficient.	Co-Governance is the process where the decision making are shared between the government & the citizens.
(ii)	It is a operational stage.	It is a decision making stage .
(iii)	It makes the public service need based, interest of the citizens and work effectively.	It provides the citizens as the ownership in the decisions.
(iv)	It helps to produce the new technologies, works, ideas that is essential in the current time.	It makes the citizens involves in the core works of the governments.

U T

IV)	Example:- people active in the government's programs	Example community first / users group that involve in decision also!
VI)	It is less participatory in the system.	It is more participatory actions in the system.

Ans.

If Jaya a young accident survivor had to replace her limbs, heart, lungs, liver and brain as well as eyes, lips and voice.

a) Is she same person?

To answer this, question we have to look at it by 2 different perspective:

She is same person as:

- Even if all the parts has been changed and we may look different but she is still Jaya at her core.

- Body is merely just a vessel, a flesh suit a costume to hide the or conceal the consciousness originating from her brain (by science) or from her soul (by spirituality).

- And her brain has been replaced by spirituality distinct brain and soul, they are not the same thing.

→ Does soul resides in brain?

• And her soul has not changed even if she forget herself, the people close to her still think of her as her. ✓

• For example, if she were a close friend of mine I would still think of her as Jaya. ✓

• I would like to give example of Book Firefly by Buddhigagar. In this story two best friends separated, always together are separated by the memory loss of one friend. ✓

• And the other friend tries everything in his position to help the friend with memory loss remember his life and he is partially successful.

She is different person as:

• Everything about her has changed.

• Her lungs, her limbs everything that made # the Jaya herself has changed.

• She doesn't remember her past lives so we can argue she is not same. ✓

- Even her eyeslips voice are changed. ✓
- And after all our memories are what makes us, us and if all of her has changed she is someone different. ✓

② ~~I do~~ Will she retain consciousness?

She will retain consciousness:

- If we see it from spiritual level she will retain it as all of the memories are made by being birth but consciousness is an entirely different thing. ✓

V.V. ✓ ~~Yes~~ I don't think consciousness and memories are the same thing and who knows, if consciousness has a consciousness of its own maybe her memories will come back again.

She will not retain consciousness:

- ~~It~~ Consciousness emanates from the brain and now even her brain is transplanted so I doubt her consciousness would return.

• She may feel a connectedness with people that she once knew but her original condemner may not return. ✓

- I would like to refer the book firey again Pawan (who faced memory loss) and Banta (his best friend) tries everything he can to help him remember. ✓

- Pawan did remember some elements or thought he remembers due to different things and situations said by Banta but he couldn't remember it fully. ✓

- If every story, every memory, all of her body including her brain has been replaced, I honestly doubt if she is still the same person. ✓

③ If I were her boyfriend would I continue my relationship.

→ My short answer, yes I would still continue my relationship with her.

If I loved her, every part of her could change and I would still recognize her.

Quoting a line of "The Song of Achilles" a famous book "I would know you in all my lives, before and after, with you deaf and I blind."

- I feel like power of love really outruns the changes. Even if she doesn't know me anymore I would still chose her.

- This will be like a part or after life for her as quoting the doctor rename, "Bijaya" winner of death" and as Madeline the author of "The song of Achilles" said I would still know her as she is my Jaya after all.

- ~~Peter~~ Patroclus and Achilles, the characters of "The song of Achilles" would be a perfect example.

- "Achilles' ^{heel}foot" an infamous line ~~to show~~ which means weakness. Achilles was unbeatable but his weakness lied in his heel and Patroclus witnessed his death by being hit in his only one weakness but he doesn't lose faith and they get united in after life.

- And I would think this was an afterlife for Jaya as Bijaya and considering this as her ~~after~~ afterlife I would still whole heartedly continue my relationship with her.

I would learn more towards that she is not the same person with her original consciousness but no matter what, even if everything was replaced of her, I would still want her and would continue my relationship with her.

I would take it as an example of child. When child is less than 5 yrs he/she has no recollection of memories but being older when we see photos of that time we feel as if we were in that photo as we know the people.

I would employ the same philosophy for us. I would show her the photos of ~~the~~ our time together and even if she doesn't even know us she would ~~be~~ feel connected.

5. Even if she wasn't the same person before and even if she was someone different she was still there inside of Bijaya. The essence of her was still there.

In my opinion she is the same person.

Reasons:

- legal : Her legal documents still identify her as Pooja Jais.

- Psychology : Her cognitive process, her past incidents, her way of thinking won't be changed.

- social : Her surrounding (family, friends) will remain as it is.

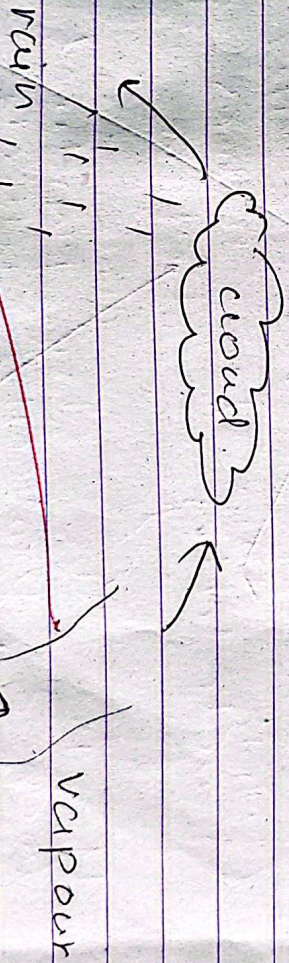

We are not defined by our organ, we are defined by our characteristics, ~~the~~ consciousness & environment.

~~Unique~~
~~V. Nice.~~

In my opinion yes, ~~she~~ she will retain her original consciousness. Because the way she look the world might be different but as being a normal human our way of Perceiving the world also changes everyday but it doesn't mean that we are the same person. We are the same person but the way we are always changes.

Since it is on human it will ~~to~~ retain. If it was non living then case would have been different.

One single matter changes its property on the basis of situation.

- It's where her boyfriend lies
I still would love to continue my relationship with her,
because love is a subjective matter. Love is driven by different notions or principles:
Love is about ~~that~~
- Trust
 - Understanding
 - Believe
 - Compromises
 - Efforts

This basic thing of love is
